

NOTES OF MEETING HELD AT SCALE HOW,
APRIL 7TH, 1902.

Chair :—Miss Kitching.

Present :—E. F. Barnett, S. Herzel, C. Kerr, E. Lawrence, E. Parish.

I. CORRESPONDENCE COLUMN.

- (a) Editor (Miss Pennethorne), to suggest a subject and invite discussion.
- (b) Notes on any good lecture to be admitted for Magazine if of practical value, and drawn up by the Student sending such notes.
- (c) Letters giving hints from practical experience to be invited.

II. READING UNION.

- (a) Prices (net or otherwise) ? and Publishers as well as Authors to be given along with the titles of all books suggested.
- (b) To be clearly stated in each number of the Magazine that well written P.C. notices and reviews of good books met with by any Student in her general reading, will be considered by the Editor if sent up before the given date.
- (c) Any Student may send a notice of any book found useful for teaching.

III. VARIOUS SUGGESTIONS.

- (a) Complete list of Students and their addresses to be given once every year.
- (b) Senior Monitress and the Students of her year to be always reckoned as one member of the Students' Association, and to send up one subscription to cover cost of year's copies of the Magazine for College use.
- (c) A Letter to be written by the Editor giving all necessary information about the working and the objects of the Association, and then cyclostyled for distribution among out-going Students, and to be obtained from the Editor if a stamped envelope be sent.

IV. BUDGET GLEANINGS.

It is suggested that head be selected for each budget, who shall take suitable gleanings from any likely to be of any interest or general use, and sent up to the Editor. Amount and dates to be given by the Editor. A letter formulating the above suggestions to be submitted to the Editor, and then copies to be circulated amongst the "Budget" members.

DEAR STUDENTS,

I have been honoured by an invitation to take up the Editorship of L'Umile Pianta, which Miss Nesbitt has unfortunately been obliged to relinquish through the press of her new work, in which we all wish her the greatest possible measure of success.

I hope you will all remember that the editor is simply your appointed officer to carry out your suggestions to organize the Magazine as a means of expressing your thoughts, and of helping on your work. I shall be most grateful to receive at any time any matter submitted to me, and the subjoined paper drawn up by a meeting of students affords very valuable suggestions, which I hope we may all do our best to carry out. I think we are all tempted to forget that P.N.E.U. thought is not a fixed quantity but a living growth, and that our Magazine should be a means of keeping in touch all those who live and work in lonely outposts with the main trend of the educational science which we are making by our daily practice.

No detail of our work can be so trivial but that it can be both of use and interest to our fellow-workers—for, as we have been taught, "there are no little things."

Yours sincerely,

R. AMY PENNETHORNE.
